

Do now – Set a 45 second timer and try and recall these answers.

- 3) Were Henry Moore's sculptures realistic or abstract?

What you will need for this weeks lesson:

- Materials to make your sculpture – These might be recycled materials, playdoh, clay – whatever you have. Be creative problem solvers!
- Your three sculpture designs.
- Images of Henry Moore's work.

An online video to supplement this lesson can be found at 'Miss Linehan Primary Art' on YouTube and is titled 'Year 5 – Week 4 – Summer 1.'

This lesson is a really good opportunity for you to be a creative problem solver. How can you make the materials you have work for you? Will you need to change and adapt how you work or maybe even your design?

If things get challenging this is a great opportunity to develop your resilience and keep on going! 😊

Year 5 – Week 4 – Summer 1

Build up the main shapes of your design first. Then refine these and finally add any details. If you want to change or develop your idea as you are working – that's fine. In fact that shows you are developing and evolving as an artist and adapting to change – great work!

Example of how Miss Linehan developed her work. I found this really challenging – I couldn't find sticky tape so had to use brown gum tape. However in the end I really liked the effect it gave. I started one version of my sculpture but it wasn't going too well. I had tried to use part of an eggbox for the head – it kept falling apart. I decided to rethink and start again. I used scrunched up paper and stuck the gum tape on it to hold it together – this was a much better idea!

Have a photoshoot with your sculpture.

Henry Moore's sculptures are placed in all different locations. Could you photograph your sculpture in various places around your house? Which places do you think your sculpture looks best in? You could even try and create your own art gallery by putting white paper around your sculpture and making it a plinth! Send your photos to the office and check out my photos below!
